

The finest biography ever written of Britain's greatest naval hero. Robert Southey ; 12 August 1774 - 21 March 1843) was an English poet of the Romantic school, one of the so-called Lake Poets, and Poet Laureate for 30 years from 1813 to his death in 1843. Although his fame has been long eclipsed by that of his contemporaries and friends William Wordsworth and Samuel Taylor Coleridge, Southey's verse still enjoys some popularity.

Moreover, Southey was a prolific letter writer, literary scholar, essay writer, historian and biographer. His biographies include the life and works of John Bunyan, John Wesley, William Cowper, Oliver Cromwell and Horatio Nelson. The last has rarely been out of print since its publication in 1813 and was adapted for the screen in the 1926 British film, Nelson. He was also a renowned Portuguese and Spanish scholar, translating a number of works of those two countries into English and writing both a History of Brazil (part of his planned History of Portugal which was never completed) and a History of the Peninsular War. Perhaps his most enduring contribution to literary history is the children's classic, The Story of the Three Bears, the original Goldilocks story, which first saw print in Southey's prose collection, The Doctor. In certain ways, this is a distinctly modern biography, and characterizes a thoroughly human Nelson, warts, occasional turns of pettiness, prejudices, and Emma Hamilton included. Southey shows a Nelson who, from a very early age, was both a natural leader and quite—sometimes overly—confident in his abilities and judgment in nearly any situation. The incident where Nelson, still a teenaged midshipman, went polar bear hunting, offers only one of many examples.
